The 2007 Banff Municipal Census

The 2007 Banff municipal census is the third municipal census conducted by the Town of Banff since the town was incorporated in 1990. Town Council declared June 12, 2007 as the official census date and the enumeration of residents was conducted between June 1 and June 30.

The Town of Banff's official population is 8,721. The official population is made up of 7,437 permanent residents and 1,284 non-permanent residents. A total of 8,770 residents were counted, however the residency status of 49 residents could not be confirmed. Highlights of the 2007 census include:

- The Town's demographic profile is characterized by a proportionately small population in the 0 - 19 age group and 55 plus age group and a proportionately large population in the 20 to 54 age group, with 36% of the population in the 20-29 age group.
- 29% of the population has lived in Banff for less than one year.
- 28% of the population has lived in Banff for more than 10 years.
- The majority of the town's workforce is employed in the service sector with 27% employed in the accommodation sector, 12% employed in the food and beverage sector, and 9% employed in the retail sector.
- 61% of the population resides in rental housing.
- 46% of the population resides in apartment housing.
- During the summer, 47% of residents choose walking as their primary mode of transportation, compared to the 17% of residents who use their own motor vehicle.
- During the winter, 40% of residents choose walking as their primary mode of transportation, compared to the 22% of residents who use their own motor vehicle.

The results from the 2007 Banff municipal census indicate that the town has a young and active population working predominantly in the service sector. Results from the census will help Town Council and administration develop policies and programs that reflect the demographic profile of the Town of Banff.

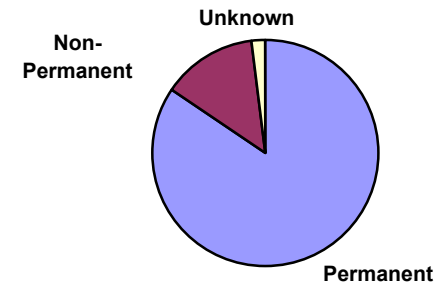

The protocol for a municipal census differs significantly from the federal census conducted by Statistics Canada. Therefore, any comparison data from the municipal census with the federal census must be done with caution. In addition, because the Town of Banff is located in a National Park, non-permanent residents can be included in the "official population".

Response by Neighborhood

Appendices

Appendix A - Population Categories

Permanent Resident - All persons who usually live in Banff, even if they are temporarily away (such as on a business trip or at school), such as college / university students who have not established a permanent residence elsewhere; Any person staying or visiting in the Town of Banff who has no other usual home; Unmarried persons who have a home elsewhere but stay in this dwelling most of the week while working; Hotel residents and employees who have no permanent home elsewhere; Any person who usually lives here but is now in an institution (such as hospital or correctional institution), if they have been there for less than six months (when enumerating an institution the reverse applies - these persons are not included); Infants born before or on the census date (June 12, 2007); and deceased persons who were alive on the census date.

Non Permanent Resident - Persons with a declared permanent residence elsewhere who are employed on a seasonal basis by an established business in Banff National Park.

Not Counted - Temporary residents who are in the community for less than six months unless they are employed on a seasonal basis by an established business in Banff National Park. Temporary residents are those persons who have a residence elsewhere and who have lived, or will be living in the community for less than six months. For example, people who own summer cottages and live there for only two months of the year are considered temporary residents of that community. Shadow populations - any person who is present in a community on a regular basis, and has a residence elsewhere may be considered to be part of the shadow population. This person resides in the community for a given period of time but does not consider this to be their permanent residence. College / university students who have a permanent home elsewhere (includes students at the Banff Centre). Persons who are now in an institution and have been there for the past six months or longer, (when enumerating an institution the reverse applies - these persons are included). Infants born after the census date (June 12, 2007). Persons permanently away in the Armed Forces. Unmarried sons or daughters, who live elsewhere most of the week while working, even if they return home on the weekends. Persons living at temporary residences, such as vacation homes

Unknown - those persons whose residency status can not be confirmed and are not included in the official population count.

Appendix D - Dwelling Type Definitions

Single Detached - a structure with one dwelling only, completely separated by open space on all sides from all other structures, except its own garage or shed.

Suite in Single Detached - A structure built as a single dwelling but in which a portion of the dwelling, such as the basement or upper storey, has been converted into a suite as another separate dwelling. To be defined as a separate dwelling, the suite must have a private entrance from outside, or from a common hallway inside.

Duplex Unit - a structure designed to contain two separate dwellings, one on top of the other or one beside the other or back to front, separated by open space from all other structures. All duplex types - upper and lower or side-by-side or back to front, must have a private entrance, from outside or from a common hallway inside, to be defined as a duplex.

Fourplex / Triplex - a fourplex is a structure divided vertically and / or horizontally into four separate dwelling units each of which shares two common walls or floor / ceiling. The fourplex may consist of either two units above and two below, or four corner units grouped in a square. A triplex is a structure consisting of three dwelling units, at least one of which is on a different level than the other two.

Both the fourplex and triplex must have private entrances to each unit and be separated by open space from all other structures.

Row (Town) House - a single attached dwelling unit in a row of three or more dwellings that share common walls extending from ground to roof and in which there are no other dwellings either above or below it.

Apartment - multiple dwelling units located on two or more levels and sharing a common entrance.

Single Dwelling Attached to a Non-residential Structure - a single dwelling unit, suite, or flat located either above or at ground level in a non-residential structure, such as a store, church, etc.

Mobile Home - a moveable dwelling designed and constructed to be transported (by road) on its own chassis to a site and placed on blocks, posts, or a prepared pad. It should be capable of moving to a new location. Recreational vehicles, motor homes, travel trailers, and camper trailers, if used as permanent residences should be included under the category for Other Moveable Dwellings.

Other Moveable Dwellings - Other moveable dwellings, other than mobile homes, can be used as permanent residences and are also capable of being moved on short notice, such as tents, motor homes, recreational vehicles, travel trailers, renovated railroad cars or school buses and houseboats.

Non-Residential Building - more than one suite or flat within a nonresidential structure such as a school or store.

Collective Dwelling - structures designed to fulfil a particular function where people stay for long periods of time (six months or more), or live permanently having no other permanent home. Included are nursing homes, prisons, senior citizen homes, penitentiaries, hospices, reformatories, hospitals, Hutterite colonies, YMCA / YWCA, work camp sites, group homes, hotels, convents / dwellings for religious organizations, homes for orphans, soldiers, the blind / deaf, mute, physically / mentally challenged.

Data reports are generated in accordance with the format established by prior census.
